REDEVELOPMENT PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR CITY

Israel Agrees To Withdrawal Terms with U. S.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Israeli and American officials meet here today to put the final touches on a historic agreement for Israel to withdraw its troops from Egyptian terrority.

High diplomatic authorities said Wednesday night that Israel had agreed with the United States and France on a formula for Israeli troop withdrawal that the Jewish nation feels will protect its borders and shipping

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. Formal announcement of the historic accord was expected "this week end" — possibly Friday — either at the United Nations in New York or here.

Actual Israeli troop withdrawals from the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba coast regions of Egypt are expected to begin soon after the announcement, diplomatic sources said.

Eban Sees Break

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, whose constant shuttling back and forth between Israel, New York and Washington helped forge the accord, told the United Press.

"I think we've broken through."

Diplomats said further discussions between Israeli and U S officials today are necessary to "tie up loose ends" and put the agreement in "proper, legal language."

If Israel does withdraw from remaining Egyptian territory it will be credited as a victory for American diplomacy. President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have devoted much of their time recently to forging a compromise that would induce Israel to pull out.

Congressional leaders of both parties also will claim a share of the credit for insisting the administration withhold support for punitive measures against Israel in favor of keeping the door of diplomatic negotiation open.

French Premier Guy Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, here for official conferences with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles, also joined in the final negotiations that led to the troop withdrawal accord.

While terms of the settlement were not immediately disclosed, it was assumed they include some elaboration of this country's offer to support freedom of navigation

Woman Bothered Over Tax Slip

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — An unidentified woman entered the office of Hempfield Township Tax Collector Albert Booth Wednesday, left an envelope on a counter and left hastily.

Booth said the envelope contained $50 and a note which read, "For conscience money—tax of 1956."

James La Carte Is Candidate For Alderman

James LaCarte today announced that he will be a candidate for alderman of the Third Ward in the Democratic primary May 21. He will be seeking public office for the first time.

The present alderman, John Harhai, does not intend to run for re-election, it has been learned

LaCarte has lived in the Third Ward since his birth. He is a graduate of Monessen High School and a veteran of World War II. He resides with his wife, the former Helen Platko, their two children and his mother at 639 Ninth street.

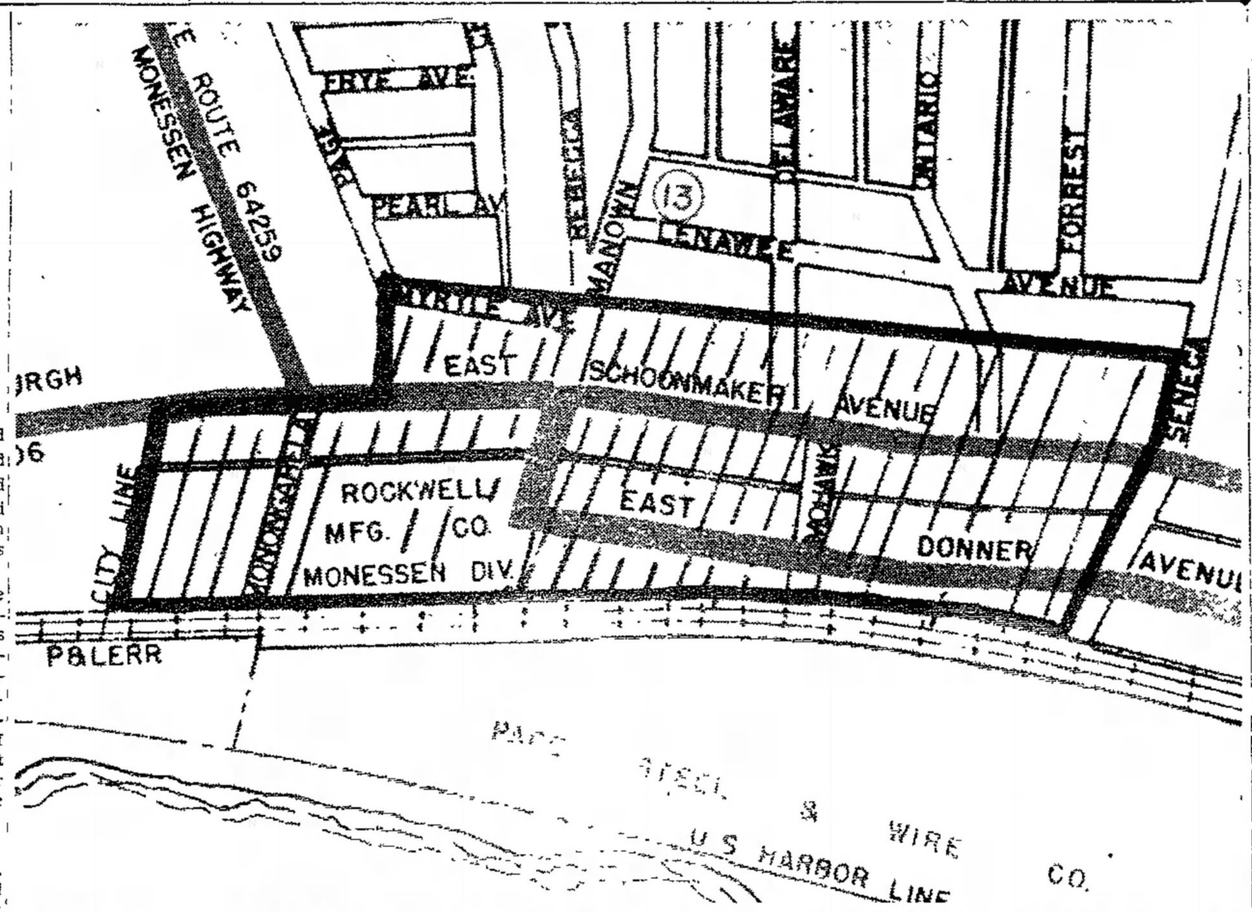
In announcing his candidacy, LaCarte said:

"I feel that I am qualified to testify that this office has for many years been held without responsibility and certainly has been almost completely neglected. I feel the voters should elect someone who has the desire and ability to carry out the duties of the office in a fair and impartial manner. I believe I can meet these requirements."

John B. Sucevic, Democrat, announced in January that he will also seek the post.

Hits School Plan

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Rep. John P Saylor (R-Pa) today described President Eisenhower's $1.3 billion school construction plan as another "political come-on" that is destroying the American Constitution.



AREA INCLUDED IN PROPOSED REDEVELOPMENT — The shaded area bordered by heavy black lines shows the property the Monessen Redevelopment Authority plans to redevelop in the eastern section of Monessen. The Authority points out that the planning is in the preliminary stages only. Estimated total cost of the project is $2,700,000.

Authority Wants To Change Area; Raze Structures

The first factual steps — and giant steps at that — toward Monessen's renaissance are about to be taken by the Monessen Redevelopment Authority.

Created about three months ago, the Authority now is ready to put its first preliminary redevelopment plans into action.

The Authority seeks first to redevelop 27 acres in the extreme northeastern section of Monessen, adjacent to the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad and the eastern city line.

Louis R. Roley

The 27-acre area is predominantly residential with a mixture of commercial and industrial establishments. Most of the existing structures are sub-standard, the Authority declared in an application for federal-state aid, "and will be removed in the course of the redevelopment program."

Blighted Area

The redevelopment plan will probably incorporate some of the existing commercial and industrial structures, thereby eliminating the need for acquiring them.

The Authority's figures show 78 dwellings, 10 commercial, 15 industrial and 23 mixed commercial and dwelling structures. About 115 families reside in the area, many of whom are housed in apartments above commercial establishments.

According to the Authority, the proposed project area is one of the City's most blighted areas. In the portion between Donner and Schoonmaker avenues, over 12 per cent of the dwellings are without water or are in a dilapidated condition. Eight to 14 per cent of the dwellings house 1.5 or more persons per room, and 60 to 70 per cent are occupied by persons who pay rent.

The redevelopment of this area is also aimed at eliminating traffic bottlenecks. The five - man Authority says the main approach to downtown Monessen from the direction of Pittsburgh is through the project area via Route 906. It says the present route has two 90-degree turns which are causing considerable traffic congestion and also are "affording adverse visual impressions to drivers entering the town."

To Align Streets

The two bottlenecks in question are at the intersection of Manown street and East Schoonmaker avenue, and the intersection of Manown and East Donner avenue

The proposed redevelopment, according to the Authority, would also provide an opportunity to greatly improve the street alignment.

Now that the Authority has taken these initial steps toward development of the City's master plan for face-lifting and improvement, the next step is to submit the proposed plans to the state and federal governments for "redevelopment grants" to carry out the project.

The Authority estimates the total cost of land and buildings with-

Nixon Leaving On African Tour

WASHINGTON (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon leaves today on a mission to prove that the smile and handshake of American politics can be as effective in winning friends in Africa as it was in Asia.

Nixon, who departs this afternoon on a 17,815-mile goodwill tour of Africa, plans to spend as much time as possible with the "little" people of the nine nations he will visit.

The vice president used the same person-to-person diplomacy with reported success during his 1953 tour of Asia. He even broke up an anti-American demonstration in Burma by walking up to talk things over with the Communist leaders.

Attractive Pat Nixon, who again will accompany her 44-year-old husband, also plans to repeat her Asian performance by visiting schools, hospitals and libraries to compare notes with local women leaders.

484 Monessen Voters Purged from the List

A total of 484 Monessen voters have been cancelled from the registration list in Westmoreland County, Robert P. DeLotto, chief of the county's voters' registration office in Greensburg, announced today.

DeLotto said 3,590 voters from throughout the county have been purged.

At the same time, DeLotto said reinstatement cards are being sent to all electors whose names have been removed from the list due to failure to vote within the past two years.

He pointed out that voters who have been disfranchised, have 10 days in which to fill out the pink reinstatement cards and mail them back to his office in the courthouse.

Township Voters

He said his office is now working on the cancellation of voters' names from townships in the county who have failed to vote at any primary, municipal or general election within the past two years This work has not been completed, he declared.

He also reminded residents that Wednesday, March 13, will be registration day in the county's boroughs. The following Wednesday, March 20, voters may register in the various townships. The hours of registration in both boroughs and townships are between 1 and 9 p. m.

There will be two registration days for Monessen and other third class cities, March 20 and March 27, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Urged to register are persons who have failed to vote within the last two years, who have changed their names through marriage or have changed their addresses. New registrations will be accepted for persons who have reached 21 years on or before May 22, 1957.

'Singing Boys' Group Entertained Here

Families in Monessen, Belle Vernon and North Charleroi were doing their best today to give 32 boys from far-off Norway a sample of American home life.

The boys are part of the "Singing Boys of Norway" choir which is giving a concert at the Monessen High School auditorium tonight under the auspices of the Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association.

The choir arrived in Monessen late yesterday afternoon in a chartered bus after an all-day ride from Springfield, O.

The boys were met by representatives of 16 families who promptly hustled them off in pairs for two nights and a day of friendly hospitality.

Mrs. Paul Latkanich, secretary of Civic Music who arranged the housing accommodation, had the assistance of Director Ragnvold Bjarne and other adults in the group in making home assignments.

In many cases the boys are staying in homes where there are children of the same or approximate ages. Nearly all the boys speak English well.

Bjarne, who is a house guest of Civic Music President Harry R. Pore, Jr., and Mrs. Pore at their home on Graham avenue was warm in his praise for the local hospitality.

He explained that the "Singing Boys" tour is partly sponsored by the Norwegian government as a goodwill gesture to the United

The Irish Come First with Jewish Mayor

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY

DUBLIN, Ireland (UP)—Robert Briscoe, the Jewish lord mayor of Dublin, has decided that the Irish come first.

Briscoe is caught in a fantastic but flattering tug - of - war. Irish and Jewish groups — and politicians with an eye on the votes of both—are outbidding themselves to play host to Briscoe during his six weeks coast-to-coast tour of America starting March 16.

He has received 2,100 invitations for guest appearances "and more are pouring in."

"I'm giving Ireland absolute priority," Briscoe told the United Press in an interview.

"I will devote my first day at every point to anything of an Irish nature organized by major Irish societies. The second day will be given over to the United Jewish Appeal and other Jewish functions."

Third priority will then go, he said, to local Irish and-or Jewish groups, with other individuals next in line.

The remaining problem is that some Irishmen — and governors, mayors and city councilmen—will have to wait longer than others for Briscoe to appear on the scene.

He will start off on March 16 at New York's St. Patrick's Day parade, in the reveiewing stand alongside Gov. Averell Harriman and Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

"They couldn't have it on the 17th (which is St. Pat's Day) because it is a Sunday," Briscoe said.

So the Irish of Boston, who also wanted him there on St. Pat's, agreed to postpone their parade until Monday the 18th.

"A very nice gesture," said Briscoe, who will address a joint session of the Massachusetts legislature. Briscoe has been a member of the Irish Dail (parliament) since 1927.

Briscoe's son, William, an airlines pilot on the Far East run, will be shifted to fly Briscoe, his wife, his steward Peter Delaney and Senator Jeannie Dowdall from Shannon to New York. The tour will carry him to Boston, Newark and other New Jersey points, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Toronto, Canada, and Miami, Fla.

Asks Fare Boost For Bus Company

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Cilmerville, Russellton and Cheswick Transit Co., Culmerville, has asked the Public Utility Commission to authorize a five-cent cash fare increase for rides on its Culmerville-New Kensington routes in Allegheny and Westmoreland counties.

The company said the higher rates, filed to become effective March 28, would produce an estimated $3,780 in additional revenue annually, which it said was needed to meet higher operating costs.

Teamster Boss Asked to Hear Racket Charges

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators today "invited" western Teamster boss Frank W. Brewster to listen to more charges against him by a racketeer he allegedly threatened with sudden death.

The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee recalled Portland, Ore., racketeer James B. Elkins this morning to tell how Brewster's friends allegedly tried with Teamster backing to take over pinball machine operations in Portland.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said in case Brewster—a Teamster Union vice president and head of its powerful Western Conference—declined today's invitation the committee has subpenaed him to appear Monday.

Forced Payoffs

Elkins told the committee Wednesday that Brewster's friends made—and dropped—plans to move into prostitution and punchboard rackets in Portland.

The somber looking racketeer testified that he was asked to pay $2,000 a month in graft to Portland Dist. Atty. William M. Langley, and that Teamster official Clyde C. Crosby persuaded the Portland City Council to legalize possession of punchboards. He said Langley was elected with Teamster support.

He also said Brewster promised him he would find himself wearing "concrete boots" in a convenient lake if he embarrassed "my boys"—Crosby and Langley.

Says Elkins Boss

Crosby, a union organizer, circulated to reporters a statement that he said he wants to read to the committee.

It charged Elkins with trying to "make crooks and racketeers out of Teamster officials." It said the Teamsters had tried to "end Mr. Elkins' stranglehold on the city."

Then, in some of the gaudiest congressional testimony in years, Elkins and Ann Thompson, a middle aged Seattle bawdy house "madam", gave conflicting accounts of efforts to set up a string of "call houses" in Portland.

Elkins said Seattle racketeers Thomas E. Maloney and Joseph P. McLaughlin—alias Joe McKinley—brought Miss Thompson to Portland to set up the bawdy houses, but that he discouraged her.

Miss Thompson said Maloney told her it was Elkins' plan. But she also agreed Elkins was cold to the idea.

in the 27 acres at $2,700,000. The resale value of the land is estimated at $600,000, meaning some $2,100,000 is actually needed to finance the project.

The Authority is requesting the federal government to provide $1,400,000 of the funds, the state $350,000 and the City $350,000. However, the City is not expected to contribute the $350,000 in cash since the cost of any work done by the City in the proposed area — such as laying sewers, building or repairing streets, labor, etc. — will be deducted from its contribution.

Plans Are Feasible

Community Planning Services, a consulting concern retained by the City to prepare its master plan, has gone over all phases of the redevelopment of the eastern section of the community and believes preliminary plans now in the hands of the Authority are the most feasible for the redevelopment of that section.

The Authority is also working with Community Services on a project for the redevelopment of the west approach to the City from Route 906.

The Authority has ambitious plans for clearing all the City's slums, neighborhood blight and changing the physical layout of congested areas.

Members of the Authority are A. Edward Wilen, chairman; Charles Throop, vice-chairman; Kenneth Mahan, secretary; Roderick Wiseman, treasurer, and James Destefano, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Wilen unfolded the initial plans publicly yesterday at a meeting of City Council. Mayor Hugo J. Parente hailed the proposed redevelopment of the 27 acres as a "step in the right direction" towards Monessen's renaissance. Other members of Council agreed.

in the Gulf of Aqaba, and to push within the United Nations for guarantees against Egyptian raids on Israel from the Gaza Strip.

A U.S. "middle way" resolution calling on the United Nations to take over the Gaza and Aqaba areas after Israel pulls out has been held up at U.N. headquarters awaiting developments here.

It is possible the resolution, without the threat of sanctions it reportedly contained, may be the vehicle for giving Israel the guarantees it seeks after the Israelis agree to quit Egypt.

However, other reports said the proposed U.S. resolution might be scrapped in favor of assurances to Israel by a number of nations including the United States that withdrawal from Egypt would not mean a return to the pre-invasion status.

Early Solution Seen

Israel has insisted it w[ill] pull out of Egypt until giv[en] assurances Egypt would not be able to resume commando attacks from the Gaza Strip, nor cut off Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

The big "break" in the long and ticklish dispute was heralded Wednesday night first in a guarded statement by Eban. Word was passed by an otherwise silent State Department to get in touch with the Israeli embassy here.

An Israeli spokesman at the embassy, contacted by telephone, read this statement:

"Replying to inquiries, Ambassador Eban tonight said that as a result of discussions in Washington over the last few days, the hope of an early solution is much stronger. The embassy will remain in contact with the State Department Thursday."

States; and in many cities organizations of Norwegian-Americans provide housing accommodations for the boys.

In the absence of such an organization here, Civic Music undertook to provide accommodations.

The choir has completed three months of a four-months concert tour and has appeared in cities from coast-to-coast. The boys sail for home from New York March 29.

Most of the lads are in the 10-14 age bracket, but the choir includes several older boys and young men who sing tenor and bass.

The boys have a free day today until a rehearsal scheduled for 6 p. m.

Some of the hosts entertained their guests in groups last evening. Television was the big diversion, however, in several homes since the boys do not have much opportunity to see TV in Norway. Eating was also high on the entertainment list, according to reports.

Bjarne and his aides encourage the boys to get as much exercise as possible in the open air.

"The long bus rides are very tiring to the boys," he said. "They are used to plenty of outdoor life in Norway, and they miss it."

The homes entertaining the singers include those of the Rev. and Mrs. Abner P. Richard, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. William Huoy, Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Bunting, Mr. and Mrs. James Destefano, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Furio, Mr. and Mrs. Pore, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Krasik, Mr. and Mrs. George Cieply, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Vernaccini, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Weddell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Duvall and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Samuels, all of Monessen; also Mr. and Mrs. Carl Younkin, of Belle Vernon, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hindman and Mrs. Anna Andersen, of North Charleroi.

The concert begins at 8:15 with the auditorium doors opening at 7:30. Members of households where the boys are being entertained will be the guests of Civic Music for the performance.

McDonald Picks Up Tab for Detective

PITTSBURGH (UP)— United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald has picked up the tab for the salary of a city detective who served as a bodyguard for the union head on out-of-town trips during January and early February.

Safety Director Louis Rosenberg said he had received and turned over to the city treasurer a check for $486.49 from attorney Ernest C. Nassar, counsel for McDonald and the union.

Probers in Dispute Over Hearings on Pardons Board

HARRISBURG (UP) — The scope of the special legislature investigation of the state Pardons Board will be determined today at an executive session of a Senate-House committee before resumption of public hearings.

The initial hearing Wednesday broke up abruptly in a dispute between Democratic and Republican members of the committee as to its right to inquire into public reaction to decisions of the Pardons Board.

The issue arose after J. Harold Hughes, first assistant district attorney of Delaware County, testified about local reaction to commutation of sentences granted to five Philadelphians convicted of destroying public property in the county in 1955.

Attorney General Thomas D. McBride, a member of the Pardons Board and its legal counsel at the hearing, then raised a point of order. He conceded the committee was authorized to determine whether any alleged "political considerations" or other improper motives influenced board recommendations. But he argued that if the committee extended its investigations to determine the "right or wrong" of all board decisions it would "make a shambles of the principle of separation of the powers of the government."

McBride's objections were upheld by the two Democratic committee members, Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (Northampton) and Rep. Philip Lopresti (Cambria).

But Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron), committee chairman, and Rep. Clarence D. Bell (R-Delaware) contended the investigators were authorized to inquire into all aspects of the board's operations. The two other members of the committee—Republican Sens. William Z. Scott (Carbon) and Robert D. Fleming (Allegheny) — who might have broken the deadlock, were absent at the time.

Tompkins refused to continue the hearing until the issue was settled by the full committee in executive session.

The dispute was the second of the day between McBride and the committee. Earlier he won, over the objections of Tompkins, the right to cross-examine witnesses appearing before the committee.

Tompkins charged that a "conflict of interests" disqualified McBride from representing the Pardons Board, inasmuch as McBride represented David Darcy in one of his court appeals prior to his appointment as attorney general. McBride termed the charge "pure nonsense."

The committee was scheduled to recall Hughes for further testimony regarding the commutation of sentence granted the five Philadelphians convicted of destroying public property during a labor dispute in Media in 1955. They are Joseph McSorley, Joseph D'Antonio, Joseph J. Dendorfer, Charles Rainier and Pasquale DiMarco, who received commutations after serving only four months of their two-year sentences.

Ike, Mollet in Agreement on Mideast Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and French Premier Guy Mollet agreed today that a solution to the Middle East problem can be achieved by peaceful means.

Mr. Eisenhower and the French premier issued a joint communique as Mollet concluded his Washington visit and left for New York.

Because the Middle East negotiations in the United Nations remain in a fluid state, the two leaders took a somewhat generalized stand on the problem. The communique said:

"With reference to the Middle East, they stated their common conviction that solutions to the problems of the area can be achieved by peaceful means, in conformity with the principles of justice and international law."

They reaffirmed their belief in the free use of the Suez Canal in accordance with the treaty of 1888.

They also reiterated their support of the requirements unanimously adopted by the United Nations Security Council and accepted by Egypt last October, calling for free and open transit through the canal without discrimination and the insulation of canal operations from "the politics of any country."

Aged Man's Death Is Called Exposure

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—State police today ruled out the possibility of foul play in the death of John Rinaldi, 74, of Seward, whose body was found in a woods near his home.

Police said death was due to exposure. They said Rinaldi, who had been missing since Jan. 8, had been dead for some time when his body was found Tuesday.

Driver Is Killed

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Silvis Fink, 26, Delmont, was killed today when his automobile sideswiped a truck and run through a fence 20 feet from the roadway.

Pitt Students Given Vaccine

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh, birthplace of the Salk polio vaccine, was embarked today on a mass inoculation program aimed at the vaccination of 25,000 students, teachers, employes and their families.

Thirty inoculation teams were on hand as the program, designed to set a pattern for mass clinic operation, got underway in the Pitt Commons Room Wednesday with Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the vaccine, present as an observer.

Among the first to be inoculated was Dr. E. H. Litchfield, Pitt chancellor and board chairman of Smith-Corona. The Pitt clinic will continue for four days and be repeated when the recommended second round of shots are given.

Aged Man Hurt In Argument At His Home

Robert Grisby, 80, of Fitz Henry, near Smithton, was admitted to Frick Memorial Hospital, Mt. Pleasant, with severe lacerations said to have been inflicted during a family argument about 5 p. m. yesterday.

The aged man was bleeding profusely when he arrived at the hospital, suffering from multiple lacerations of the face and head when struck by a heavy water glass thrown by a niece who lives with her uncle.

Larry Dongilli, South Huntingdon Township patrolman, found the man in a reportedly dazed condition after he was summoned to the home by Grisby's son, William, who lives nearby. He was rushed to the hospital.

Dongilli said he is continuing his investigation.

Young Mother Wanted to Feed 'Her Babies'

CINCINNATI (UP)—A 17-year-old mother who was arrested for attempting to break into a food store because "I couldn't stand to see my babies hungry," was back with her children today.

Patrolman Albert Elsbernd said he arrived Wednesday just as Mrs. Karen Correl was about to throw a brick through the window of a food store.

"I thought it was a man," Elsbernd said. "She was dressed in blue jeans and aheavy black leather jacket."

The officer said he fired several shots when Mrs. Correl dropped the brick and began to flee.

"I'd never steal for myself," Mrs. Correl told police, "but I can't stand seeing my babies hungry. I was desperate, I guess." She said there was no food left for her children.

At the Correl home, police found the father, James, 19, and the two children, ages 16 months and 3 months, sleeping.

They said they found three eggs, four carrots and a half-filled bottle of milk in the refrigerator and two cans of soup in the cabinet.

"I told her not to do it," police quoted the husband.

Police Manhunt For Abductor in Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Extra police poured into the city's East Liberty - Homewood - Brushton area early today in an all-out search for a man who successively abducted two women, one the mother of internationally noted orchestra conductor Lorin Maazel.

Police said the man first forced his way into the automobile of Mrs. Marian Maazel, 62, Pittsburgh, when she stopped for a traffic light in the East Liberty section Wednesday night.

He forced her to drive to neighboring Westmoreland County where he robbed her of $150. Mrs. Maazel escaped when they stopped at a restaurant and the man fled in her car.

About an hour later, the man deliberately crashed Mrs. Maazel's car into a machine driven by Mrs. Ruth Vernam, 42, of New Kensington RD 2, on a highway near New Kensington, about 25 miles north of Pittsburgh.

Brandishing a pistol, the man forced his way into Mrs. Vernam's car and drove her to Pittsburgh. There he choked and criminally assaulted her. Then he drove to the Brushton area and fled leaving Mrs. Vernam in the car.

Both women described their abductor as a six-foot-two, slender Negro wearing a "hairline" mustache. Police said a man of the same description was involved in a similar abduction of a woman in the New Kensington area a month ago.

Crippled Plane Landed; 26 on Board Unhurt

DETROIT (UP)— A crippled airliner carrying 26 anxious persons circled wearily over two cities for hours Wednesday before its crew fixed a frozen nose wheel with orange juice and coffee and brought the big ship in for a perfect landing.

Capt. William Richey, 38, Minneapolis, set the Capital Airlines Constellation down at Willow Run Airport with only a few slight bumps.

Ambulances and fire and police rescue squads, which waited tensely for the large plane to come in, sped out to the taxiing craft but were not needed. None of the 21 passengers and five crew members was injured.

Many of the passengers came out of the plane smiling and were quickly hustled off to a lounge in the airport terminal. The crew remained aboard the ship to confer with Capital officials.

Richey, a Capital pilot for 11 years, said the plane's nose wheel froze shortly after the four-engined ship took off from Gen. Mitchell Field at Milwaukee with 15 passengers bound for Detroit and the rest for Philadelphia.

Ralph Reid, Capital's director of engineering, blamed the trouble on a "hydraulic leak."

Edward Langenfield, New Holstein, Wis., a passenger, said Richey told the passengers of the situation almost as soon as he learned of it.

Langenfield said there was no panic aboard the crippled plane although most of the passengers were "anxious."

Injunction Issued to Halt Milk Picketing

NEW YORK (UP)— Farmer opposition and an anti-picketing injunction may force the collapse today of a three-state milk strike.

A temporary injunction was issued late Wednesday prohibiting New Jersey farmers from interfering with milk shipments and from picketing creameries.

The injunction, signed by Judge Mark A. Sullivan Jr. in state Superior Court in Newark, was issued against the Tri-State Master Dairy Farmers Guild which started the boycott Sundy to back their demands for a guaranteed price of $5.75 a hundredweight for raw milk.

Representatives of some 1,500 strikers in western New York said they would abandon the boycott today because of increased police guards for milk trucks.

The 23,000-member Dairymen's League Cooperative Assn. and the 11,000-member Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative issued statements denouncing the boycott as a means to obtaining higher milk prices.

In Albany, leaders of the Dairy Farmers of America called on farmers to refrain from the boycott after meeting with New York Agriculture Commissioner Daniel J. Carey.

The New York milk market administrator's office reported that 15 per cent, or more than one million gallons, of th e normal milk supply had been wholly or partially withheld from the New York metropolitan area since the strike began.

More than 45,000 farmers in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania supply milk to the areas 12 million consumers.

In spite of the boycott, major distributors reported they had enough milk on hand to adequately meet consumers demands.

Violence broke out again Wednesday and Wednesday night in the three states.

New Jersey state troopers armed with riot guns and tear gas dispersed 500 farmers who advanced on the Raritan Valley Farms Dairy in Somerville. The farmers smashed several windows but there were no injuries. Police also headed off an incoming milk truck before the angry farmers could reach it.

City Health Department Kept Busy Last Year

A total of 201 communicable disease cases were reported to the Monessen Health Department during 1956, Albert Marchione, health officer, revealed in the department's annual report today.

Measles accounted for 163 of the cases. There were 31 cases of chicken pox, three cases of scarlet fever and one case each of whooping cough, tuberculosis and meningitis.

No one in Monessen had mumps last year, according to Marchione.

The report further showed that 86 samples of milk were collected from 16 delivery trucks operating within the City. He termed the average sediment of the milk tested as "clean." Marchione stated his figures show that approximately 7,680 quarts of milk are sold daily in Monessen.

No disease was traced to milk entering the City, the report revealed.

The department spent $172 to have the milk samples inspected by a Pittsburgh firm.

In another section of the report, Marchione said 12 persons were commited to the Westmoreland County Home during the year and four to Torrance State Hospital.

The number of inspections of restaurants and drinking establishments totaled 189 and corrections were ordered for nine establishments. The breakdown shows there are 43 liquor-dispensing establishments in the City, 13 restaurants, six drug stores, and 16 confectionery and dairy stores.

Each employe of these establishments was required to take a medical examination during the year.

The department operated on a budget of $2,350 last year.

Dr. Albert Lutes To Head World War I Veterans

Dr. Albert Lutes, of Charleroi, will be installed on March 26 as commander of Mon Valley Barracks 350, World War I Veterans.

The installation will take place at the Charleroi Elks, beginning at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Lutes will succeed Lou Ross, of Charleroi, who has served as commander for the past two years.

Other officers who were elected this week during a meeting in the First National Bank Building in Charleroi include:

Thomas W. Muir, Belle Vernon, senior vice commander; Clarence Boyd, Donora, junior vice commander; W. Ross Allen, Charleroi, quartermaster; Rev. Robert Laing, Charleroi, chaplain; Joseph Stofko, Donora, judge advocate; and Everett Hormel, Charleroi trustee.

Ike to Open Red Cross Drive Tonight

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will open the annual Red Cross fund and membership drive tonight with a nationwide television and radio address.

The Red Cross 1957 fund goal is $95 million.

E. Roland Harriman, Red Cross national chairman, said the recent floods in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, coupled with other disaster relief work early this year, have more than doubled the regular $4 million Red Cross disaster budget.

'Pike Accident Rate Lowest

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission said today the 1956 accident rate on the superhighway was the lowest since the road opened 17 years ago.

The commission said total accidents in relation to total vehicle miles showed an overall decrease of 12.8 per cent for 1956 as compared to 1955.

A total of 56 fatal accidents were recorded last year, nine less than the 65 in 1955. The commission also said the number of vehicles traveling over the pike increased 24.5 per cent in 1956 over 1955 and total miles traveled increased 14.4 per cent.

Seventy-four persons were killed in turnpike accidents last year, 16 less than the 90 killed in 1955.

Canonsburg Man Gave Embezzler Blank Checks

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Domenick Falconi, 63, Canonsburg businessman, contended in Federal Court Wednesday that he gave the late John F. Wagner, Cecil Bank cashier who embezzled $1.8 million, signed blank checks.

Falconi made the admission during arguments on his suit seeking $19,625 from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which took over the bankrupt First National Bank of Cecil.

He said that on Sept. 19, 1950, six days before Wagner's suicide, the cashier told him he had written the checks for $19,625 to help cover a shortage.

He said Wagner later gave him worthless checks in that amount.

George Craig, attorney for the FDIC, argued Falconi lost nothing because his checks filled in by Wagner were worthless, too.

Canned Fruit Suitable For Deep Dish Cake

It is in February and March that most of the blustery wintery weather comes. At this time it is particularly convenient to have a generous stock of canned fruits on hand. Fresh products, coming as they do usually from some distance, may be held up by storms.

Short supplies in the markets cause a price rise for those on hand. For these reasons, canned fruit is used more than any other time of the year.

It is always pleasant to be able to look over supplies and to decide which group to serve in its own form, or to make into a more elaborate dessert. Peaches, pears and pineapple will probably be used alternately. Although there may be a preference for one or the other, most will be satisfied with whatever is chosen.

Because of their interesting shapes, pears are attractive for a deep-dish cake that may be served with plain or whipped cream or with a custard sauce. The same recipe could be adapted for peaches or pineapple.

Deep-Dish Pear Cake

1 No. 2 ½ can pear halves
1 ¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup butter, softened
1 egg
1-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup pear syrup
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon dark corn syrup

Drain pear halves, reserving ¼ cup syrup and 2 pear halves for garnish. Slice remaining pears into bottom of 9-inch piepan or cake dish. Combine flour, baking powder, salt, 1 cup sugar and nutmeg in large bowl. Make well in center and add soft butter, egg, milk and vanilla. Beat until batter is smooth. Spread evenly over sliced pears. Mix together pear syrup, 3 tablespoons butter, brown sugar and corn syrup in small saucepan and bring to a boil. Cook 2 minutes. Pour over top of cake batter and bring to a boil. Cook 2 minutes. Pour over top of cake batter and bake in moderate thirds and arrange slices on top of cake. Bake 10 minutes longer. Serve warm with cream. Yield: 6 servings.

VARIATION

Substitute canned peach halves or pineapple rings for the pears in recipe for deep-dish pear cake. Use white instead of brown sugar in the sauce.

SAVORY BEETS

Open can of beets and drain. Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine. Add 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 tablespoons vinegar, and 2 tablespoons sugar and stir over low heat 2 minutes. Add beets and toss well. Cover and simmer over low heat until thoroughly heated

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

CUBE STEAKS, skillet cooked, are deservedly popular with young homemakers and teenagers who want to save steps from stove to table in order to spend more time with their guests.

Electric Skillet Favored For Easy Meal Cookery

Not long ago, I listened in to a discussion among young housekeepers in regard to their cooking problems. Several of them were fall brides and the talk turned to the wedding presents that had been found most useful.

Edith Barber

The electric skillet was given several votes, as even when there are good kitchen facilities, it was sometimes put to use for the preparation of a meal at the dining room table. Because it is possible to regulate the heat so easily, it can be used for meats that demand slow cookery as well as for hamburg patties which are so often featured.

While most young people seem never to tire of hamburgers, cube steaks are economical and after cooking, may be served in split buns that seem to have been especially designed for the former. As one of the brides mentioned, service of this sort saves dishwashing. The teenagers who were often expected to help with the dishes, like this type of family meal, when they are entertaining some friends.

Another suggestion for an easy meal to be skillet cooked is the preparation of a tomato rabbit which can be served on split buns, on toast or on large crackers.

BARBECUED CUBE STEAK

6 cube steaks
½ cup catsup
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 hamburger buns

Place cubesteaks in large skillet. Combine catsup, water, salt, sugar, onion, chili powder and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over cube steaks in skillet. Simmer about 30 minutes, until meat is tender. Heat buns, split and butter. Serve cube steaks in buns. Yield. 6 servings.

TOMATO RABBIT

2 cups (½ pound) soft cheese, sliced thin
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 can (1 1-3 cups) condensed tomato soup
6 slices hot toast

Cook cheese and seasonings at low temperature, stirring until cheese melts. Add enough tomato soup to thin mixture so that it may be poured on toast. Yield. 6 servings.

Canned Foods Prove Safe And Healthful

Food prejudices die hard. When one of long standing has met its deserved end, it seems as if it should be given a good funeral and buried deep. This is the fate that suspicious attitude toward canned foods has deservedly met.

One of the greatest contributions ever made in the food field was the discovery of pasteurization and its application to the preservation of foods by canning. Naturally, the process was not completely foolproof in early days. Experience and scientific research have combined, however, with the result that today there is almost never a question in regard to the healthfulness of foods processed by modern methods.

There has also been a great improvement in texture and flavor. Among vegetables, corn and beets are particularly successful but peas and Lima beans are runners-up. Among fruits, peaches, pineapple and applesauce are often favored.

While people may prefer fresh fruits during the heart of the season, they use them in canned form throughout the year. There may even be a preference for certain products for some purposes, such as the ever-popular pineapple upside-down cake.

PINEAPPLE CHARLOTTE

1 package lime or lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
3 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup canned crushed pineapple
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Place gelatin in bowl. Add water, sugar, and salt, and stir until dissolved. Add juice from crushed pineapple. Chill and when mixture begins to set, beat until light and foamy. Stir in pineapple and fold in whipped cream. Pour in mold and chill several hours until set. Unmold on serving plate and garnish with sliced pineapple and candied cherries. Yield. 6 servings

Yorkshire Pudding Tasty Treat

Yorkshire pudding achieved its fame as an accompaniment to roast beef. Actually, it is just as delicious with any meat that can supply "pan gravy" or thickened brown gravy. For instance, it was received with acclaim just last evening when it was offered with oven-cooked broilers and a rich brown gravy.

The original recipe is nothing more or less than the same batter that is used for popovers. After the meat or chicken is out of the oven pour off the brown drippings or butter, cover the roasting pan with foil and keep it warm on top of the stove until the pudding is partially baked.

Reserve about half of the fat for the gravy and pour the remainder into the casserole. The batter is added and placed in a hot oven (450 degrees F.). After 20 minutes, the heat is lowered to 350 degrees, and the chicken is returned to the top rack in the oven. At the end of another 20 minutes, the pudding has risen far above the sides of the casserole but has a low center in which the hot fat accumulates.

If not quite ready for the meal the oven is turned off, the gravy is made and the pudding will be brought in with the chicken. By the way, the pudding does not resent waiting when it is given this treatment.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup hot drippings

Break eggs into bowl, add milk, and beat until well blended. Add sifted flour and salt all at one time and continue beating until mixture is smooth, and as thick as heavy cream. Pour about ¼ cup hot drippings into quart casserole. Add batter and bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Reduce to moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and continue baking about 20 minutes until a tall rim forms around edge of bowl, and the pudding is lightly browned. Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

BROWN GRAVY

Pour ¼ cup drippings into skillet. Stir in an equal amount of flour. Gradually add liquid in which chicken giblets were cooked, or water. Stir over medium heat until sauce thickens. Add more liquid if needed, and salt and pepper to taste. Serve at table with Yorkshire pudding.

The sunflower was introduced into Europe about the middle of the 16th century. It is native to America.

Yapping Senators

A SMALL band of U. S. Senators, most of them celebrated for their loquaciousness, is now delaying the Senate's final decision on President Eisenhower's request for congressional authority to counteract Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Typical of this group is Sen. Wayne Morse, of Oregon, who holds the all-time filibuster championship of the Senate although he always professes to be a leading liberal.

These senators, if you can make any sense out of their windy speeches, are opposing the Eisenhower proposals, not so much because they think they are wrong as because they dislike Secretary of State Dulles and think this may be a good chance to get rid of him.

We see nothing wrong with any senator voting against the Eisenhower policy if that represents his conviction. To determine the extent of congressional support for his plans is precisely why the President went to Congress.

But it seems to us that both Mr. Eisenhower and the American people are entitled to a reasonably prompt decision from the Senate. And they are not getting it because this group insists on endless repetition of its ideas; many of which are wholly irrelevant to the subject.

We are in a midst of a serious world crisis calling for prompt and clear-cut American policy decisions. When will this "little group of willful men", to use Woodrow Wilson's phrase, shut their mouths and let the Senate transact its important business?

Improper Mixture

POLITICIANS, no matter how much they may have things their own way, should nevertheless avoid any appearance that they own the government which they are operating temporarily and that its personnel and facilities exist for their convenience.

We admit this is a nice distinction which is not easy to make in all circumstances. But it seems to us that in doubtful cases partisan affairs should have no more than secondary consideration.

As an example, it strikes us as highly improper for the office of the City Clerk in the Monessen City Hall to be displaying the nominating petitions of candidates for office regardless of whether or not this unique service is open to all candidates.

The circulation of nominating petitions is a purely political operation. And the office of the City Clerk is a purely governmental operation — or should be. To mix the two seems to us to be in poor taste.

Political organizations, particularly when they have been in undisputed control for a long time, tend to be careless in these matters. And after a time, it seems the public, too, comes to regard such practices as the acceptable routine.

But they aren't at all. The public business is one thing and political maneuvering is another, and the twain should not be mixed where it can be avoided.

Patient Efforts

AS PART of his patient labors in the cause of international friendship and understanding, President Eisenhower has had as his guest this week Guy Mollet, premier of France. Together they are trying to repair some of the damage caused by the events of last fall in the Middle East.

We cannot, of course, know everything that transpires in personal visits such as this one with M. Mollet or in the recent one with King Saud or in the previous one with Nehru of India. Necessarily such discussions are largely confidential.

But we feel sure the American people are conscious that their government is making the most strenuous and resourceful efforts to find common ground with all the nations which share the ultimate objectives of the United States. Mr. Eisenhower is leaving no stone unturned in the search for peace and justice.

The President may not do everything just right or just as others would have things done. He is not above criticism and suggestion.

But surely he deserves the support and confidence of our people in the great effort he is making. And we cannot but feel that, with such devoted and skillful leadership, we shall yet find the way.

The Senate investigators are learning that out on the Pacific coast the Teamsters Union has been driving a lot of things besides trucks, including at least one district attorney.

A private dectective testifies that he is afraid of Frank Sinatra. How weak can a man be and still sit up in a witness chair?

Merry-Go-Round—

Young FDR Quits Work For Dictator

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Franklin D Roosevelt, Jr., has decided to give up his $60,000 contract as lobbyist of bloody dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. Trujillo's latest reported involvement in the disappearance of Jerry Murphy, the pilot who reputedly spirited Columbia Professor Jesus de Galindez out of the USA, was too much for young Roosevelt.

Mr. Pearson

However, he's having trouble with the lobbying partner, Charles Patrick Clark, who makes a specialty of lobbying for dictators. He draws around $75,000 a year from Spain.

Roosevelt informed Congressman Charles Porter of Oregon that he was not renewing his contract with Trujillo. But when Clark's office was asked about this, Clark said he knew of no change, later called Congressman Porter's office to say there had been no change in his and Roosevelt's contract with Trujillo.

Meanwhile, Congressman Porter has written letters to his GOP colleague, Congresswoman Katharine St. George of New York, to Col. Carroll Cone, vice president of Pan American Airways, and to Father Joseph F. Thorning, who has been active around Congress on behalf of both Trujillo and Franco, cautioning them about the medals they are getting from Trujillo. Porter has suggested that they might want to read a speech he is delivering regarding the murders of the Dominican Republic before they accept or keep their medals.

Tennessee Teamsters

Last July John Seigenthaler, reporter for the Nashville Tennesseean, telephoned Dave Beck, czar of the Teamsters Union, to tell him that two of his Tennessee Teamster bosses, Local 317, had police records and were up to the ears in local shenanigans. He also relayed the same message to Jim Hoffa, Teamster czar for the Midwest states.

Seigenthaler has yet to get an answer from either. Meanwhile, Teamster activities in Tennessee are following a pattern which AFL-CIO President George Meany and most of the labor movement sincerely want to clean up, but which the boss of the world's biggest union condones.

W. A. Smith, Nashville teamster business agent, has had numerous arrests for drunkenness and assault, but somehow witnesses always seem to be afraid to appear against him. In 1953 he was arrested for beating up Wallace Rasmussen, general manager of the Meadowgold Ice Cream Co. Rasmussen was all hot to press charges. But when Smith went to trial, Rasmussen refused to take the witness stand. Teamsters' power was too great.

On Oct. 30, 1955, Smith was arrested for assaulting Frank Allen, manager of the Terminal Transport Co. Allen hired an attorney to make sure the case was prosecuted. But on the morning the case came up in court the lawyer announced that he was most embarrassed, but Allen would not testify. Again the power of the Teamsters was too great.

Recently, however, thanks to a campaign by the Nashville Tennesseean, the climate has changed. Teamsters Perry H. Canaday and C. B. Richardson have been convicted of murder, and other Teamsters have been fined for contempt of court. Messrs. Beck and Hoffa, however, did nothing to clean up.

Why the Russian Arms?

When the fast-moving Israeli Army blitzed into Egypt last fall, it found the most amazing cache of arms accumulated anyplace since World War II. Russian tanks, artillery, half-tracks, ammunition of every kind and description were spread out over the Sinai desert. The store of arms was so vast and varied that unquestionably it was to be used not only as an Egyptian base for attacking Israel, but for some king of Russian drive to take over the Near East.

The Israeli Army wiped out or captured this arsenal.

One very important point to be considered in any UN debate for the punishment of Israel is why this stock of arms was allowed to accumulate and whether its accumulation was not in fact an act of aggression against Israel. If, for instance, Russia stored arms 2 miles across the Mexican border from El Paso, the citizens of Texas and probably the rest of the United States would have done exactly what the Israelis did.

It's also important to note that these arms didn't get to the Egyptian-Israeli border overnight. The United States first got word they were coming one year and four months earlier — June 1955. One month later, the President met with Bulganin and Khrushchev at Geneva. Yet nothing was done during the smiles of Geneva to stop arms shipments obviously aimed at war.

From Washington—

Mideast Solution Developing

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

A negotiated solution, which would bring about the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egypt with assurances against new Egyptian raids and discriminations, seems within reach.

If this end is achieved in the next few days — and the ingredients of agreement appear definitely at hand — then everybody, with the possible exception of the Soviet Union which prefers turmoil, will be the winner.

Mr. Drummond

It seems to me that the United States has rightly committed itself, both morally and, in all reality, irrevocably, to establishing for all nations, including Israel, the right of innocent passage through the Egyptian-held Gulf of Aqaba to the Israeli port of Elath.

For its part, Israel now seems disposed to accept "assurances," which are less binding than "guarantees," as a basis for withdrawal. This would be a wise and justifiable act of faith in the firm intentions of the United Nations and the United States not to permit a resumption of the Egyptian actions which provoked the invasion.

What Broke Impasse?

What has brought this explosive and apparently irreconcilable impasse to the border of peaceful solution?

The Israeli position was that its very survival depended upon being guaranteed against repeated Arab raids from the Gaza Strip and unhibited access to the Port of Elath.

The United Nations position was that, despite the provocations, the Israeli invasion of Egypt in force was a massive violation of the U. N. charter and that the U. N. couldn't give any guarantees to Israel as long as it was violating the charter.

The stalemate: no Israeli withdrawal without guarantees; no guarantees without Israeli withdrawal.

This deadlock could only be broken by two things:

Recognition by the United States that the U. N. had become so involved in the technicalities of the dispute that in the end it was dealing primarily with what it would do — that is, vote sanctions — if the deadlock were not broken, rather than dealing effectively with the substance of the deadlock.

Recognition by Israel that in the end its best interest would be served rather by relying on the U. S. and the U. N. than by provoking the aroused hostility of the free world through trying to obtain its rights by force.

Both Sides at Fault

It seems to me that there has been a confused and over-elaborate concentration on the need of making sure that Isreal is not "rewarded" as the result of its invasion of Egypt.

This would be an important concern were it not for two circumstances:

The responsibility for the series of conflicts between Egypt and Israel is so interwoven that a similarly interwoven solution is not only realistic but justifiable. Both countries are at fault, and I should think there is no moral reason why the conditions which would bring about a solution should not come into being simultaneously — or as nearly simultaneously as possible.

Secondly, the real test of whether the U. N. has "rewarded aggression" is surely not whether Israel withdraws before it has some solid assurance that Egypt's offenses against Israel will not be repeated but whether Israel is being given anything in the wake of the invasion that it didn't deserve before the invasion. It isn't.

Dulles Getting Results

Secretary Dulles' initiative to break out of this hobble is apparently yielding results. With increasing precision he is assuring Premier Ben-Gurion that if Israel withdraws its forces, the U. S. will act to establish the international right of free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba. This is not reward; this would be righting a long-standing injustice.

Reports from Cairo suggest that Egypt may be ready to accept U. N. troops in the Gaza Strip to prevent border raids. If not, the same protection could be achieved by Israel inviting the U. N. troops to stand guard on the Israeli border.

There'll Be Changes If Bums Move to L. A.

By DOC QUIGG

BROOKLYN, Yabumya (UP)—Speculation arose here today as to what might happen if, alackaday, the rumors proved true and the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles and fell under the movie spell.

Hollywood would never stand for simple old handles like Don and Roy and Carl. Fix those names—It would be Tab Newcombe, Rock Campanella, Race Furillo. And Pee Wee just won't do for a glamorous shortstop. Make it Rory Reese.

Ransom Jackson is fine; no change there. But is Sal any name for a pitcher who serves up a swooner or upstages a batter? No. Make it Marlon Maglie, and he can play in a torn T-shirt.

Dem Bums is hardly the right name for the new environment. Perhaps something like "The Magnificent Diamondeers" is more appropriate. A Japanese trip, however, could be billed as "Around the World With 80 Bums" or "From Yogi to Fuji."

And what about the Southern California crowds, and the hawkers in the stands? Orange juice instead of beer. Avocados instead of peanuts. Everybody wearing dark glasses and gaudy sport shirts instead of scorecards-on-the-head and undershirts.

The Brooklyn sym-phony would be replaced by the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Hilda Chester and her cowbell would be replaced by ...well, nobody. Send her out there too. Change her name to Piper Chester and let her bang a J. Arthur Rank gong.

The scoreboard: Would it be in CinameScope or Todd-OA? Probably a big fight about that. And the Hollywood touch would show in the ball games. Double features on Sundays. A director, with his name on his chair back, replacing the manager. Script writers demanding a retake of dull innings. Umpires censoring plays.

Just imagine. The tobacco chaw in the cheek replaced by a long cigarette holder. The water bucket giving way to the iced champagne bucket. Salt tablets scrapped for benzedrine or Miltowns, depending on whose ambition was being fired or doused.

The star system would prevail, naturally. Some players would get a higher and mightier scorecard billing than others. And the credits would be prominent before each show: "Produced by Walter O'Malley, directed by Walter Alston, heavy thinking by Billy Herman and Jake Pitler."

And with the hiring of assisting talent from other studios for some productions, you might get a small legend at the bottom one day. "additional dialogue, brainwaves, and motions by Leo Durocher."

If they traded Gil Hodges, Gary Cooper would make a perfect first baseman — matter of fact he starred in that role once.

The uniforms would have to be sexed up a bit. Change 'em every day — cowboy uniforms one day, African shorts and bwana helmets the next, monster makeup (Mr. Hyde, Dracula, Frankenstein's, the Wolf Man) for night games under the kleigs and baby spots.

That's all brother. Get your check. Game called on accounta smog.

Behind The News—

Franco Moves Toward Monarchy for Spain

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Generalissimo Francisco Franco appears to have moved another step toward restoring the Bourbon monarchy in Spain.

He seems also to have moved a step toward giving up some of the sweeping power he has held for more than 20 years.

These developments seem indicated by Franco's drastic reshuffling of his cabinet, the first since July, 1951.

The representation of men who favor the restoration of the monarchy is a little stronger in the new cabinet.

And Franco has provided for the appointment of a prime minister at some future time.

There is every indication, however, that Franco, now 64, intends to stay in office for the foreseeable future.

Franco is now his country's "caudillo"—leader—of the empire, chief of the state, commander in chief of the armed forces, prime minister and head of the Falange political party.

Dictator Since 1936

He has wielded dictatorial power ever since he was named chief of state on October 1, 1936, two months after the outbreak of the civil war, as leader of the nationalist rebellion against the leftist-tinged Republican government.

King Alfonso XIII had been overthrown in 1931 when the Republicans won an overwhelming victory in a national election. Alfonso died in Rome in 1941.

The civil war ended in 1939. Franco remained head man. On March 31, 1947, he announced that Spain was to become a monarchy again. He appointed a regency council which, in the event of his own incapacitation or death, would name a king.

Nominally, the heir to the throne would be Alfonso's son, Don Juan, who lives in exile in Portugal, Spain's next-door neighbor on the Iberian Peninsula. But Franco has been grooming Juan's son, Don Juan Carlos, for the throne.

Franco and Don Juan met in 1954. They agreed that Juan Carlos, now 19, should go to Spain to complete his education—an education pointed toward his eventual assumption of the throne.

Gets Military Training

Juan Carlos is studying now at the Zaragoza Military Academy. He is being coached by special tutors in problems of statehood and government under Franco's direction. Later he is to attend the naval and air force academies.

The idea of the restoration of the monarchy is not very popular with the leaders of the Falange party. Some of these leaders are bitter opponents of the restoration idea. Others believe that plans could be worked out by which, under a king, the party might still be the real power.

There may be a serious clash at some future time if Franco decides that the time for a monarchy has come—or if something happens to him which makes the restoration an immediate issue. Army leaders are strongly monarchistic. A lot of army men do not like the Falange.

But for the present, France seems to be in no hurry to make any change in the governmental system.

His first step, when he gets ready, is likely to be the appointment of a prime minister who would take over some of his heavy burdens of government while leaving him head of state.

Recalling Ancestors Not Always Pretense

By MARGARET LATROBE

Speaking of genealogy, who cares whether Uncle Albert fought with William the Conqueror and left us a Coat of Arms to prove it? Does this noble fact alter the ignoble present? We are still just what we are, have to earn our way, get our own show on the road. William the Conqueror is no help at all.

Mrs. Latrobe

We laugh about pretentious folk whose front halls hold framed evidence that they, at least, are somebody. Visitors donning galoshes on departure can't fail to see the family escutcheon. The ancestors amounted to something, it states.

Of course, the coat of arms might be a phony. You can buy 'em in junk shops, or even pay an agency to look you up on the hope of finding relationships worth mentioning. Tourists to England are invited to consult genealogists over there, on the hope of bringing home that prize souvenir — a well-pruned family tree.

What's it prove? Does a water color of family arms make silk purses from plain ordinary folks?

Even they who can trace lineage straight back to the Dark Ages find themselves up the garden path, leading not to Eden but to a dead end. The ancients duly elected county clerks to keep track of family lines, as did the moderns. But barbarous hordes of the Dark Ages either couldn't find their ball-point pens or somehow failed to run to the court house every time a statistic needed recording. Very careless of them.

Vanity and pretense may well play a role in the adult version of "My dad can lick your dad"—called "My family is better than yours." I think this nonsense may be offset by a different consideration. Not that we should or could lean on tattered gentility as a substitute for present status, still a symbol that we are part of the long procession of humankind is not a bad thing. I believe we are too prone to feel the world began with us, was created for our personal span, and nothing much can happen when we depart.

Like Popeye, we are what we are, and that's a-plenty. A coat of arms identified the bearers as belonging to a valorous and courageous band who believed in a cause and were loyal to their leader. Family pride, family honor were not empty phrases. Perhaps it would be well if we all hung family symbols in the parlor, contemplating now and then how much or how little we have contributed to its story. Forefathers we had, some with grace of mind and heart, some without. Even if there were Uncle Alberts who were too cowardly to ride along beside the knights, no matter.

If a coat of arms hanging in the hall gives testimony that this family, or that, aligns itself with courage and honor — that's great. Maybe it's something no home should be without.

Catholic Daughters Plan 'Mardi Gras'

"Mardi Gras" termed by visitors to New Orleans as the "Greatest Show on Earth" is a period when hundreds of thousands of people give expression to their festive feelings before the Lenten period of fast. In keeping with this season of wholesome fun, spontaneous gaiety and feasting Monessen Court 776 Catholic Daughters of America is sponsoring a Mardi Gras to mark the 35th anniversary of the Court.

It will be held next Monday and Tuesday in the Slovak Home and admission will be free. Many booths and novel refreshment stands will be arranged in true Mardi Gras fashion.

The "Carnival Season" officially opened on Jan. 6th, only 12 nights after Christmas and the members of the Court have been busy since that time preparing for their charity bazaar. It began with cards being mailed to friends of the members and celebrities for packages for a parcel post sale. Mrs. Jilda Tegnelia, chairman of this booth, reported that she received packages from people from coast to coast, including Jeanette MacDonald, Danny Kaye, Walt Disney, Jerry Lewis and Eddie Fisher. Mrs. Richard Nixon and Mrs. Clare Booth Luce both responded to the postal card appeal.

Sample Fair

The Sample Fair committee has been at work since early January and as a result the visitors to the bazaar will receive free samples and souvenirs contributed by manufacturers, distributors and local merchants.

Mrs. Margaret Wilkins, who is in charge of "Kiddies Korner" reports that many booths will be interesting for the younger set. There will be a fish pond, turtle race, lollipops, grab bags and other novelties arranged for their entertainment. Mrs. Wilkins and her committee have arranged a booth especially for the teenagers and a "white elephant sale" for all age groups.

Another feature will be a "Kash and Karry" country store booth to feature home made noodles, home baked beans, jams, marmalades and other foods from the kitchens of the members.

Hand Made Articles

Hand crocheted, tatted and other trimmed handkerchiefs have been made by the members and others have been making aprons, novelty items and dressing dolls. A bake sale and candy sale will be in operation when the bazaar opens at 5 o'clock on Monday evening.

2 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father and brother, Regis Harry Guibourdanche, who died 17 years ago today, February 28, 1940.
Darling loved one, how we miss you,
No one will ever know,
Of the many heartaches and sorrows,
As the days come and go.
You left with us a memory
Which clings around your name,
Just how brave and true you were
Until this day you died.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay
But the love we hold for you, dear loved one,
Will never fade away.
We love you more and always,
And miss you more each day.
Your name is always mentioned
In many, many ways.
Sadly missed by son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Guibourdanche and sister, Mrs. Augustine Massey.

In loving memory of our dear husband, son and brother, Joseph Charles Stringhill, who died three years ago today, February 28, 1954.
How silently and sweetly you sleep.
The angels must have known
That you were meant for them
And claimed you as their own.
Did you feel our lonely ache?
Did you hear us mourn and cry?
Perhaps you did because we know
It's just farewell and not goodbye.
Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Betty Stringhill, the Stringhill and Dunlap Families.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Joseph Charles Stringhill, who died three years ago today, February 28, 1954.
From this world of trouble and sorrow
To the Land of Peace and Rest.
God has taken our beloved brother
Where he has found eternal rest.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
We who loved him, sadly miss him
As it dawns another year.
Sadly missed by Joseph Stringhill and Family

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Frances Yakich, who died five years ago, February 28, 1952.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Daughters, Sons and Grandchildren

Miners Strike Over Cup of Tea

CHESTERFIELD, England (UP) —Five hundred miners struck over a cup of tea Tuesday.

They struck in protest when the mine's canteen manager fired waitress Frances Hancock because she complained the weak tea he made was not good enough for the miners.

Two Held in Slaying Of Six in Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)— Police Wednesday night arrested two men, one of whom was freed only last year from "death row." when one confessed they killed six persons in the Hartford area in Chinese-execution style.

Held for arraignment on murder charges today were Joseph Taborsky, 33, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and formerly of Hartford, and Arthur Colombe, also 33, an ex-convict.

State Police Commissioner Joseph C. Kelly refused to say which had confessed and implicated the other. The six victims were killed over only a two-month period. All were forced to kneel before they were shot in the head This method of murder was borrowed from the Chinese.

If convicted, Taborsky and Colombe could be executed.

Taborsky and his brother, Albert, were convicted in 1951 of the murder of a Hartford package store dealer during a holdup.

Sentenced to death, Joseph Taborsky spent four years in death row at Connecticut State Prison during legal efforts to obtain his freedom.

He was freed last year by the state Supreme Court of Errors on the ground that testimony given by Albert Taborsky was invalid because Albert had been adjudged insane and committed to a mental hospital.

Two of eight guns found in Colombe's apartment, police said, were used in more than one of the slayings.

Only one person witnessed any of the killings. Frank Adinolfi, the manager of a shoe store in North Haven. 25 miles south of Hartford, told police he was pistol-whipped by one of two men while the second fatally shot Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Speyer of Meriden, customers in the store, when the pair entered and robbed Adinolfi of $50.

The first deaths attributed to the so-called "Mad Dog Killers" took place Dec. 15 when Edward Kurpewski and Daniel J. Janowski, both 30, were each shot in the head in Kurpewski's service station at New Britain, 10 miles southwest of here.

Hailstorm Halts Traffic in Town

BOONE, N.C. (UP)—A hailstorm halted traffic for 15 minutes and covered the ground with hail pellets up to a half-inch in diameter in this mountain town Wednesday.

The temperature dropped 10 degrees during the afternoon storm. No serious damage was reported.

FAMILY PROTECTION AUTOMOBILE COVERAGE!

DEAR MR. POLICYHOLDER:

You presently carry automobile liability insurance to pay your legal obligation to other persons for their injuries caused by accidents, which arise out of your owning or operating an automobile. Ninety per cent of your fellow Pennsylvania motorists do likewise. Regardless, many innocent persons find it impossible to recover for their injuries, which are caused by uninsured automobiles, or unidentified hit-and run drivers.

You will be pleased to know that we can now offer you a new form of coverage that provides this protection. It is known as "FAMILY PROTECTION — AUTOMOBILE COVERAGE" and is added by endorsement to your automobile liability insurance policy. It provides payment of damages which you, or members of your family, are entitled to recover when injured by uninsured automobiles, or unidentified hit-and-run automobiles. Guests, in a car operated by you or your spouse, are included under the coverage. Limits applicable are $5/10,000, and the endorsement costs only $4.00 per year.

We strongly recommend this new Family Protection endorsement. Here is coverage superior to that which compulsory insurance would provide, in that it furnishes the source of recovery for injuries caused by any uninsured automobiles, whether, or not, registered in Pennsylvania, a stolen car, or by a hit-and-run automobile. The cost to you is far less than substantial increases in automobile premiums you ultimately would have to pay under Compulsory Insurance Laws.

If you should desire this protection, please call us and we will issue an endorsement for your policy.

Nervous Tension Eased By Tranquilizing Drug

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

More and more drugs are being developed to combat nervous tension. And two of the three drugs I want to discuss today in our monthly review of medicine deal with alleviating tension.

One of them, Compazine, is reported to have an extremely high tranquilizing activity and rapid response even in small doses. It was tested on more than 12,000 persons before it was introduced to the general public.

This tranquilizer is reportedly successful in treating a wide variety of mental and emotional conditions including anxiety, agitated depression, tension, confusion, restlessness, senile agitation, even post-alcoholic states.

Small does taken by mouth are said to be particularly effective in preventing nausea and vomiting during pregnancy.

Another drug developed originally as a treatment for premenstrual tension, has reportedly proven effective also in preventing acne and other skin ailments.

The drug, Pre-mens, is said to relieve premenstrual tension, depression, anxiety, backache and bloating.

Moreover, studies indicate that it also prevents premenstrual exacerbation of acne and other skin ailments suffered by so many women.

A third new drug, Camoform, is an anti-amebic which reportedly is effective against intestinal amebiasis.

Amebiasis is a parasitic intestinal disease which frequently has been considered chiefly a disease of the tropics. But the high rate of the disease recently has led medical experts to agree that the illness can be found wherever suspected and sought.

Usually amebiasis involved the large intestine, the liver and possibly other organs.

Not only is Camoform effective in treating the disease, it also reportedly produces only slight, if any, side effects even on prolonged administration.

Elvis Presley Called Worst Dressed on TV

NEW YORK (UP)—Elvis Presley, who soon may be doing a right dress in the army is guilty of a wrong dress in TV.

Like Abou Ben Adhem, Presley's name led all the rest today as Irving Heller, Manhattan tailor and sartorial handicapper, compiled his list of the 10 worst dressed men in television.

"Presley is one of the most deplorable cases of bad dress I've ever seen," said Heller. "Without a doubt, he is the worst dressed man ever to appear before the TV cameras.

"I am not knocking his talent, but I feel he is doing a disserivce to the cause of dressing among teenagers by his example. He does not look neat, dignified and clean-cut the way a young man should."

Heller, who gained a measure of distinction a few years back when he referred to Arthur Godfrey as "a wet teabag with legs," also picked the worst dressed show on TV—"What's My Line."

"The men on 'What's My Line' look like pallbearers," said Heller. "The women are dressed beautifully, but the guys look like they're getting ready for a funeral."

As a result of this questionable distinction, "What's My Line" contributed two candidates to Heller's list—John Daly and Bennett Cerf.

Ozarks Would Like to Get Hundley

Tony Mascetta, director of the upcoming Monessen Ozarks Basketball Tournament, plans a trip to West Virginia University in the next couple of days in an effort to persuade Hot Rod Hundley to appear in the show . . . Speaking of Hundley, he is planning a tour with his own basketball team after his final appearance with the Mountaineer varsity. The much publicized cager is also mulling over several attractive professional offers . . . The Vulcan Quarterback Club of California State Teachers College will stage its annual banquet next Thursday at the college dining hall. Dr. Michael Duda, former superintendent of Monessen public schools and current CSTC president, will be the main speaker.

When Perryopolis tripped Irwin in a playoff game the other night, the Commodores blocked the Black Knights from their tenth sectional title in the last 11 seasons . . . Perry's next foe will be West Newton on Saturday at Connellsville. That game will decide the Section 17 crown . . . Edward McFaul, noted lecturer, will be the principal speaker at the annual WPIAL dinner, March 9 at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh . . . Vic (Jack) Rabbits, former Jeannette and West Virginia University football-baseball standout, has signed a minor league contract with the Detroit Tigers.

Redstone Puts up Surprising Game

Redstone High basketballers bowed out of the WPIAL Tournament in their first appearance the other night just as all of the experts had predicted. However the Black Hawks put up a surprisingly good game before losing to Ford City by a single point . . . Incidentally the last Redstone team to win a section title was coached by Chauncey Shives, former Belle Vernon teacher, back in 1939. That team also lost in its first tourney appearance, bowing to West Newton. The Hawks played their games in those days in the notorious "Glory Barn", an old building which was heated by two coal stoves at either end. Once during a game with Monessen the lights went out when somebody hit the banking board a little too hard.

A radiothon conducted last weekend by a Beaver Falls radio station produced more than $6,000 in pledges for the Richard Kadis Fund . . . Incidentally a benefit basketball game between Geneva College and Ft. Knox, Ky., raised almost $5,500 for the injured footballer. Still more money is needed. Before long, the medical bills for Kadis will reach $20,000 . . . There was some recent agitation to resume football as a varsity sport at St. Francis College. However former coach Vince Davis, who is now the school's athletic director admits: "Things are not coming along too well. In fact, I'm afraid football won't be back at St. Francis for a mighty long time."

Engle Concedes Outlook Is Better

Even Penn State football coach Rip Engle concedes that the Nittany Lion football outlook is better on paper this spring than it was a year ago. "But football is still played on the field not on the drawing board," hastens the successful Engle whose creation last fall posted a creditable 6-2-1 record . . . By the way, spring drills at Penn State will start on March 18 and run for 20 days in compliance with NCAA rules . . . According to Scottdale High officials, the school has not yet formally joined the newly-formed Tri-County Football Conference even though the Scotties have been listed as a charter member. Reportedly Scottdale would like to get into a circuit comprised exclusively of Class A schools in Westmoreland County.

Larsen, Amoros, Holdouts

By UNITED PRESS

Those familiar autumn rivals—the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers — officially launched their spring training today with World Series heroes Don Larsen and Sandy Amoros listed as holdouts.

Larsen, who pitched the first no-hitter in series history against the Dodgers last year, was the only unsigned player in the Yankee camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., as the world champions unlimbered their muscles for the start of the new campaign.

At Vero Beach, Fla., on Florida's east coast, the Dodgers started full-scale drills without Amoros, their fun-loving, cigar-smoking outfielder who still is remembered for his "1-million dollar" catch that earned Brooklyn its 1955 World Series victory over the Yankees.

Getting Nowhere

The Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, were getting nowhere in their efforts to sign outfielder Bob Nieman, who finished among the American League's top hitters last year with a .320 average. He is asking a $6,000 increase to $26,000.

The Boston Red Sox had five holdouts in their ranks — infielders Ted Lepcio and Billy Klaus, outfielder Jim Piersall and Gene Stephens, and catcher Sam White —while the Milwaukee Braves awaited the signatures of outfielders Bill Bruton and Wes Covington, first baseman Frank Torre and pitcher Ernie Johnson.

Pitcher Art Houtteman, who had requested that he be sold or traded during the winter, reluctantly accepted a pay cut from the Cleveland Indians. The Tribe now has five holdouts, including veteran shortstop Carrasquel.

Giants Go After Catcher to Replace Sarni

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—While Bill Sarni lay seriously ill in a local hospital—his baseball career ended—the New York Giants today re-opened trade negotiations with the Cincinnati Redlegs in the hope of acquiring a replacement for the hard-luck catcher.

Sarni suffered what was believed to be only "muscular spasms" of the chest during a workout at the Giants' training camp here Monday. However, the ailment was diagnosed officially as a "moderate coronary" Wednesday by his physician, Dr. Leslie Smith.

Like Ike's Attack

The 29-year-old backstop must remain in the hospital "for at least four or five more weeks," Dr. Smith said. The physician added Sarni's heart attack was similar to that suffered by President Eisenhower in 1955.

"It is a moderate attack, but he will not be able to play again," Dr. Smith revealed. "Sarni's normal life should not be affected, just his athletic career."

Sarni, who is married and the father of two children, will be kept on the Giants' roster as a coach following his recuperation.

Courtney Enters Meet in Chicago

CHICAGO (UP) —Tom Courtney, winner of two gold medals as a runner in the 1956 Olympics, today joined the roster for the Chicago Daily News Relays.

Courtney and Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh, with whom he has been competing at the 1,000-yard distance, will meet in the relays in the same event March 16.

Bragan Sees Pirates Finishing Fourth

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP) — This is the day Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan begins working towards redemption of a pledge—a first division finish.

The cigar-chewing pilot promised last December his team would finish at least fourth in the National League pennant chase.

"I said it then, and I'll say it now," Bragan said at the opening of Pirate spring drills. "The first three teams are the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Milwaukee Braves and the Cincinnati Redlegs. Though not necessarily in that order.

Need Some Breaks

"Our boys—given a fair amount of breaks and barring injuries should finish fourth."

Bragan stacked up against a crisis right from the start. Jack Shepard had been regarded as the No. 1 catcher, but the personable 24-year-old Stanford University alumnus decided last Saturday night to retire from the game.

Only a few hours before his decision, Shepard had advised General Manager Joe L. Brown he would be on hand when spring drills got underway and would sign a 1957 contract.

Looks To Hank Foiles

Bragan, who did yeoman work behind the bat in his playing days, probably will call upon Hank Foiles for first line backstop duty. Danny Kravitz, who has had only one year experience as a catcher after playing the outfield, batted .265 with Hollywood last year.

In his freshman season as a big time pilot last season, Bragan helped the Pirates break their four-year monopoly on the cellar spot of the league. The Pirates were in sixth place the last day of the 1956 season, but a defeat by the pennant-winning Dodgers sent them into a seventh-place finish.

Has Healthy Hurlers

Bragan was heartened by his healthy pitching staff. Dick Hall, whom he regarded as the fourth starting pitcher, developed a sore arm in the first few months of the 1956 campaign and failed to win a game while marked with seven defeats.

But the front-line hurling squad of Bob Friend (17-17), Elroy Face (12-13), Ronnie Kline (14-18) bulwarked by Bob Purkey, Joe Trimble, Luis Arroyo solidify Bragan's hope for his "redemption."

Lee Walls, Roberto Clemente and Bill Virdon, described by Bragan and not disputed by rival managers as the "best defensive outfield in the league," reported in tip top shape.

Top Batters

Virdon with .319 and Clemente with .311, finished second and third respectively behind 1956 National League Batting champion Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves (.328).

With Frank Thomas (.282) at third, Bill Mazeroski (.243) at second, Dale Long at first (.263), and Dick Groat at short (.273), the Pirates have a blend of offensive and defensive powers.

Harold (Buddy) Pritchard, a bonus shortstop, Spook Jacobs, Dick Barone, Dick Cole and Gene Freese are ticketed for reserve duty. The O'Brien twins—Eddie and Johnny — are listed as infielders but may be given an opportunity to try their skill at pitching.

Monessen Girls Play Host to Belle Vernon

Monessen's Fifth Avenue bowlers will play host to Belle Vernon tomorrow at 9:15 p. m. to Belle Vernon in Mon Valley Ladies League action.

The city girls are still nine games in front of the race. They won two of three tussles from Fredericktown last weekend.

Lucy Faltz was the top scorer in that match, turning in a 166-461 chart. For the losers, Midge Bailey had a 149-407.

In other weekend matches, Uniontown swept over Vestaburg, Donora took a pair from Scottdale, Monongahela won two from Connellsville; and Belle Vernon earned a duo from Bentleyville.

Leading scorers included Helen Paro, 152-416 (Donora); Gwen Clark, 137-366 (Scottdale); Martha Venturini, 164-456 (Uniontown); Ann Hausher, 139-351 (Vestburg); Pat Barber, 153-413 (Connellsville); Helen Koch, 158-420 (Monongahela; Leona Kuhn, 147-419 (Belle Vernon); Clara Ross, 159-412 (Bentleyville).

Standings show Monessen, 61-14; Uniontown, 52-23; Donora, 51-24; Fredericktown, 44-31; Monongahela, 43-32; Charleroi, 43-32; Bentleyville, 38-37; Connellsville, 35-40; Scottdale, 28-47; Belle Vernon, 28-47; Vestaburg, 20-55

Redstone Recovers Stolen Receipts

School officials at Redstone said today that they have recovered $440 in athletic receipts which were stolen Wednesday night.

Faculty Manager Tony Tassone discovered the money was missing when he arrived at his office yesterday. The sum represented part of the receipts from the sale of student tickets to the Redstone-Ford City WPIAL playoff game.

Questioning of students eventually turned up the culprits—two teenage boys. They returned the money.

The boys broke a window and pried open a metal file to reach the money, school authorities said.

College Scoring Still Tight

By UNITED PRESS

Thirty-six points is the "target for tonight" for Mississippi's Joe Gibbon in his last attempt to beat out Grady Wallace for the national basketball scoring championship.

Gibbon, the baseball whiz who has been pitching strikes on the court all winter, plays his last regular season game tonight against Mississippi State. He goes into it with a 30.3 points per game average, needing those 36 markers to overhaul Wallace's 30.48 mark.

Wallace, the South Carolina jump-shot artist, is idle until Saturday night when he plays his last regular season game against Clemson. But Wednesday night his lead withstood challenges by hot-shooting Elgin Baylor of Seattle and little Chet (The Jet) Forte of Columbia.

33 For Forte

Baylor wound up his regular season by scoring 28 points in Seattle's 95-81 triumph over Portland to remain in third place with 30.0.

Fourth-place Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of Kansas, who has three more games to go, was idle, but Forte racked up 33 points for Columbia in an 80-62 win over Cornell.

The performauce boosted Forte's fifth place average to 29.14 points per game, just a whisker behind Chamberlain's 29.2.

Seattle, already picked for the National Invitation Tournament, was one of three tourney-bound teams to chalk up victories Wednesday night. Dayton, runner-up in the NIT last year and slated for a return trip, romped to a 90-47 victory over Toledo as Carmen Riazzi scored 23 points. And Xavier of Ohio, also NIT-bound, whipped Western Kentucky, 77-71.

Syracuse Bushwhacked

However, Syracuse, a "member at large" selection for the NCAA tournament, was upset by Niagara, 79-74.

Louisville, the nation's No. 10 team and last year's NIT champion (but ineligible to return this year because it's under a post-season ban), ran its record to 19-5 for the season with a 97-76 victory over DePaul as big Charley Tyra scored 24 points.

St. Louis, leader of the Missouri Valley Conference, will try to take a giant step toward that league title by beating Tulsa tonight. Three tourney teams also are scheduled — Manhattan (NIT) vs. St. John's, Memphis St. (NIT) vs. Arkansas St. and Canisius (NCAA) vs. Holy Cross.

Arnold City in Bowling Sweep

Arnold City swept over Charleroi and Monessen won two of three games from Bentleyville in Mon Valley PNA Bowling League action last weekend.

Standings show Bentleyville, 18-6; Arnold City, 13-11; Monessen, 10-14; and Charleroi, 7-17.

Cro-Ams Go to Donora Tonight

Take Part in Benefit Cage Game Against Unbeaten Donora Quint

Coach Paul Kunsa's undefeated Monessen Cro-Ams — idle since last Monday — will dive back into action tonight.

The Cro-Ams will invade Donora for a challenge match with the undefeated Donora Croatian Club. Both teams are running away with their respective City League races.

The game, scheduled to start at 7:15 p. m., will be part of a triple-header, with all proceeds to go toward the March of Dimes fund.

Monessen will go into the game with 17 straight wins. The Donorans have won 16 in a row.

The game is regarded as a toss-up despite Donora's home floor advantage.

In other tussles tonight, the Donora Catholic War Veterans will meet Monongahela NBC and the Donora City League All-Stars will take on the Pitt Gridders.

Boys Game

That former game will be for boys in the 11-13 age bracket. It is scheduled to start at 6:15.

The latter attraction will get underway at 8.15 and will pair the top Donora cagers against a team of Pitt football players.

The Monessen Cro-Ams will return to City League duty tomorrow when they resume their best-of-three championship series with Viaduct.

The Cro-Ams won the opening game in that bout last Saturday, hammering Viaduct, 70-44.

California edged Canonsburg, 58-55, behind a 25 point scoring effort by Nat Green.

Ellsworth took top Bhonors with an easy 71-47 conquest of Chartiers.

Sports Bills Sent to House

WASHINGTON (UP)— Emanuel Celler (D-NY), chairman of the House Judiciary Anti-Trust subcommittee, said today he hopes to hold hearings later on the sharply-contrasting professional sports bills that have been introduced.

Celler and Rep Patrick, J. Hillings (R-Calif.) each has offered a bill that would put professional baseball under the anti-trust laws.

But Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark) Wednesday introduced a bill to exempt not only pro baseball, but also pro football, hockey, and basketball from the provisions of the anti-trust statutes.

Harris, chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, offered his bill because, he said, the ruling of the Supreme Court earlier this week in regard to pro football had created an "anomaly" which calls for correction by law. The court held by a 6-3 decision that professional football is subject to anti-trust laws, even though professional baseball is not.

Charleroi May Have Trouble with Derry

Charleroi High's Section 5 basketball champions may have to work up a sweat to dispose of their first WPIAL tournament foe next Wednesday.

The towering Cougars will open their post-season bid against Derry Twp., Section 10 kingpins. Noone seriously doubts that the Charleroians will survive easily.

However Derry doesn't figure to roll over and play dead either. The Twp. boys have won their last eleven games.

Moreover Derry has the type of team which could cause Charleroi some anxious moments. Derry employs a man-to-man defense, which applies the pressure from start to finish.

The township dribblers are coached by Kendall Grote, who is in his first season at the Derry helm

New System

Grote installed a new system this season and the Derry boys were slow responding. They dropped three exhibition games, then lost two of their first three league tests.

Suddenly, though, Derry came to life. In their last eleven games, they've been red-hot.

There's no doubt that the team can shoot. The Derry boys have hit on 45 per cent of their field goal attempts during the win streak.

Best scorer is Dick Falenski, 6-2 operator who averaged 22 8 points per game during the regular season. He is a nephew of Don Falensky, a cager at St. Francis College.

Derry Starters

Other Derry starters include Vito Rizzutto, 6-2; Richard Graham, 5-0; Jack McHenry, 5-10; and Eugene Bisi, 5-9.

All five of the starters are good marksmen

Derry lost to Scottdale and Hurst by one point margins in league play. Both setbacks were later avenged by whopping spreads

The township lads lost twice to Latrobe in exhibition play and once to Irwin. They also belted Irwin by an 18 point spread.

Most observers agree that Derry simply isn't in the same class with Charleroi However they feel that a "hot night" for Grote's students could keep the game interesting for awhile.

The Derry record follows:

Class B WPIAL Tourney Begins

By UNITED PRESS

Aspinwall, Section 19, meets Neville, Section 22, on the Dormont court tonight in the opening game of the Class B division of the annual WPIAL basketball tournament.

Aspinwall, undefeated this season, goes into the contest with a 20-game victory string and is favored to defeat the Islanders. Aspinwall won its last sectional title in 1937. Neville won its last section title in 1955 and was eliminated by Oakmont in tourney play.

Tonight's is the only first round game in Class B play. The winner will meet the Section 17 titlist in a quarterfinal March 8. The Section 17 title will be decided this Saturday when Perryopolis plays West Newton in a playoff on the Connellsville court.

Lewitsky Leads Monessen Juniors In Cage Scoring

Jim Lewitsky, hard-working ninth grader, paced Monessen Junior High in scoring during the 1956-57 basketball campaign.

Lewitsky tossed in 149 points, making 55 field goals and 39 fouls.

Frank Ryan was second in scoring with 128 points. John Macik chipped in with 112.

The Juniors wound up the season with nine wins and nine losses. That wasn't bad, considering heavy player losses.

No less than 3 boys counted on for regular duty made exits during the season. Al Thiry, 6-3, was called up to the varsity, while Richard Bass and Wendell Osborne both withdrew because of illness.

Two members of the squad — Anthony Romasco and Bill Batiste — will return next season. The other boys are all ninth graders who will move up to Junior High.

Ponder Fate of Millionaire Race Track Operator

MIAMI (UP)— Saul Silberman, the millionaire president of Tropical Park race track, waited today to learn whether the Florida Racing Commission would suspend his license.

Silberman was the final witness Wednesday night at the windup of a three-day hearing by the commission into charges he and his friend, Tropical Park public relations man Maurice J. Hirshstein, associated with known criminals and that Hirshstein used the private telephone in Silberman's office to give out race information to a former Cleveland bookie.

Racing Commission Chairman C. F. Ratliff said a decision in the case would not come for at least two or three weeks.

Turns Down Offer

Meanwhile, Silberman turned down an offer of $4,300,000 for the Florida track from a group of unidentified millionaire sportsmen. He announced through his attorney, R. B. Gautier Jr., the Tropical plant was "not for sale."

Both Silberman and Hirshstein denied all of the charges against them. Silberman admitted he was careless about the use of the telephone in his Tropical office by unauthorized persons, but he said he was "positive there was no intent to do wrong" by Hirshstein.

'Wild Man'

Testimony about the betting habits of Silberman, whose friends called him a "wild man" and a "nine-race bettor," highlighted the hearings. Silberman told the commission Wednesday he considered himself a "pretty good bettor" but that "I lose. . .I'm certain I never had a winning year — but I never lose as much as people believe I do.

"I'm very, very fond of going to the races and betting. . .it's my only hobby," Silberman said. "Luckily, I have been able to afford it and I suppose I will keep on as long as I can afford it."

"I never thought I would be criticized for betting at my own track," the Tropical owner said.

Calhoun Earns Split Decision Over Cotton

DENVER (UP)— Charley Cotton's handler said today that Rory Calhoun's split decision win in their 10-round bout Wednesday night was the second "bad decision" in as many fights between them.

The fifth-ranked Calhoun, the "Rocky Marciano" of middleweights, needed all his advantage in youth and strength over Cotton to gain his second split decision over the 26-year-old Toledo, Ohio, fighter before 2,500 fans at Denver's Auditorium Arena.

Calhoun, only 22, edged Cotton on a split decision last August in New York.

"We figured out here in Denver we would at least get an even break," Freddie Fierro, Cotton's manager, said. "It was a bad decision."

Calhoun whipped Cotton in the middle rounds, when his charges and pounding overwhelmed the more slightly built fighter. Cotton said after the fight that he felt the effect of Denver's 5,000-foot altitude. But he came back surprisingly strong in the final rounds, and was as fit as Calhoun at the end.

Only Stengels Doubts Yankees Are Sure-fire Pennant Winners

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., (UP) — Casey Stengel hoped today that Chuck Comiskey of the White Sox was right when he predicted the Yankees would win the pennant earlier this season than they did in 1956. But Ole Case insisted "it isn't in the bag."

He even tabbed Comiskey's team as "one of the clubs which will give us a good run for it."

The veteran manager of the world champions, shooting for his eighth pennant in nine years, maintained that the recent deal with the Athletics, whereby the Yankees acquired pitchers Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz, "is a big gamble."

League Is Improved

Stengel reasoned that the Yankees will have to improve "because the rest of the league is going to be better."

"The White Sox have a good manager in Al Lopez. He's too good to keep finishing second all the time," Stengel said. "Detroit played the best ball in the league during the last six weeks of 1956 and if the Tigers avoid injuries and pick up some reserve strength, they'll be among the clubs right after us."

Stengel isn't selling the Red Sox or Indians short either.

"Two years ago I thought the Red Sox were the coming club and the one we had to watch most but they tailed off last season," Stengel recalled. "I figured they would finish higher with that young pitching staff."

Indians Have Pitching

As for Cleveland, he said he couldn't understand "why so many think they will be weak this year."

"They really have the pitching," he insisted. "Why, they are bringing up six pitchers from Indianapolis who won a total of 79 games last year. They are in the spot where they can trade a couple of pitchers to strenghen their weak sports."

Putting all those factors together, Stengel said he couldn't go along with those who figure the Yankees are a sure thing.

"I'm pretty sure we'll be all right," he concluded. "But I hope those fellas who are saying it will be easier for us this year are right. I'm sure not figuring it will be any easier."

Russell Sets Pace in Sec. 5 Cage Scoring

Dave Russell, 6-0 junior forward at Donora High, won the 1957 scoring crown in Section 5 play, according to statistics compiled today.

He thus succeeds another Donoran, Gene Massari, who is now starring with the Pitt freshment.

Russell scored 260 points in 12 league assignments for a 21.7 average. His specialty was a one-handed jump shot.

In exhibition play, Dave tallied 126 points, giving him a total of 386 for the season. His overall average was 19.3 points per game.

Russell's closest competitor in league play was Grover Ferguson, of Brownsville, who finished strong to average 18.3 in league competition.

Payne Third

Ollie Payne, of Charleroi, was third best with a 17.5 average while Bob Chuey of Brownsville finished fourth with a 17.3 mark.

A total of 13 valley cagers averaged ten or more points per game. Included were two Monessen products, Maurice Mathieu and Frank Crisi, each with ten point figures.

Jim Bitonti, of Bellmar, also finished with a 10 point average.

The leading Section 5 scorers follow:

Ozarks After Cage Officials

All PIAA registered officials interested in working the 1957 Ozarks Basketball Tournament are asked to submit their names at the Monessen Sport Shop, along with the dates they will be available. ....

Tourney Director Tony Mascetta said today that the information is necessary in order to draw up an officiating schedule.

"We have been more than satisfied with officiating in past tourneys," said Mascetta. "This request is merely to determine what officials will be available on what nights.

The tourney begins on March 19 and runs on every other night through the 29th.

Hennon Paces Pitt to Easy Win over Penn

By UNITED PRESS

Sophomore Don Hennon celebrated his selection to the United Press "Small America" basketball team by scoring 32 points Wednesday night to lead Pittsburgh to an easy 94-76 victory over Pennsylvania.

Pitt, closing out its home season, could have bettered its game record of 100 points and Hennon's total also would have been higher had not Coach Bob Timmons given all his seniors, including four subs, a chance to play.

Hennon was the only sophomore to make the ninth annual United Press "Small America" first team, announced Wednesday. The team is chosen from among players no taller than five feet, 10 inches.

The famed jockey was blanked Wednesday with three mounts after having achieved his 4999th win on Tuesday in the first race.

Longden has four chances today, unless one of his mounts is scratched. Every time he rides a winner he sets a new all-time riding record, having passed Sir Gordon Richards' previous record of 4870 last September at Del Mar.

Byrd Calls Doctrine Expensive

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) warned today the Eisenhower Doctrine could cost U.S. taxpayers billions of dollars.

He joined Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) in urging that the Senate strip the proposed doctrine of economic and military aid provisions.

Byrd, Senate Finance Committee chairman and a leading economy advocate, said the aid portion of the doctrine could become "the first step down a road from which we cannot turn back."

"I am utterly unwilling by an extraordinary enactment of this type to open up an entirely new area of spending," he said.

The doctrine resolution—already passed by the House in a different form—authorizes President Eisenhower to spend on Middle East aid as he sees fit $200 million in already appropriated foreign aid funds.

Other congressional news:

Unemployment: Four GOP congressmen put forth the administration's new program to create more jobs in areas of unemployment. The program would set up a $50 million fund to provide loans for setting up new industries. An almost similar program died in Congress last year.

Brainwash: House investigators accused six utility firms of trying to "brainwash" Interior Department officials in an effort to wreck the federal power program. The investigators called for an immediate congressional investigation of efforts by private power companies to influence the administration, Congress and state governments.

Civil Defense: Rep. Chet Holifield charged the administration has "refused to face the problem of protecting our people from the horror of possible nuclear war." Holifield — a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee — said the Civil Defense Administration has "not even begun to discharge its responsibility."

Grade Crossing Again Denied

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Public Utility Commission has denied for the second time a request by Arnold City for construction of a grade crossing over Pennsylvania Railroad tracks on Horne Way between Moss Ave. and Constitution Blvd.

The PUC said there was a need for the crossing but it rejected the city's plan because it involved an "unusually steep" grade approach east from the boulevard.

The commission said the grade would "create a hazardous condition, particularly when highways are icy, and could result only in occurrence of serious accidents." The commission said the rejection does not preclude the filing of another method of constructing the crossing.

Steel Leaders See No Business Slump

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel Magazine remained optimistic about a near record year for business in 1957 today after questioning the presidents of three steel firms.

The publication said no business slump is in sight this year, contrary to recent predictions of a recession.

Business gains in January point to another year of high activity, Steel said, and added "metalworking sales should be at least as good as they were in 1956 when they hit a peak of $135 billion.

For the steel industry outlook the magazine queried Thomas F. Patton, president, Republic Steel; A. C. Adams, president, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., and R. L. Gray, president, Armco Steel Corp.

The three executives said they looked for a record year.

Patton said: "We have been looking forward to a year in which steel output might reach a new record, perhaps as high as 120 million ingot tons. Support of this comes from continued high levels of construction activity, and the automobile industry which is expected to improve on its 1956 performance."

Adams: "My own prediction of steel production for 1957 has been and is 120 million tons, or an average operating rate of 90 per cent capacity . . . we are optimistic despite a few pessimistic forecasts that have been made."

Gray: "Our year-end forecast was that the steel industry would make and sell more steel in 1957 than ever before in its history. This would mean prodution in excess of 117 million tons . . . at this time we see no reason to change our forecast. We still believe the steel industry will produce a record or near record tonnage in 1957, provided the buying public does not become frightened."

Treat 'Pimples' with Psychology

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — Since the demeaning ailment of the adolescent, acne vulgaris (better known as "pimples") is not consistently curable by any known medication, physicians now are urged to rely heavily if not exclusively on treatment by psychology.

The urging comes from Dr. Douglas Powers who as physician at the Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, N.Y., has been having a lot of experience with adolescents. A psychological element in acne vulgaris is well known to medical men but Dr. Powers gave it much more than the usual stress.

"We have observed repeatedly that if a boy or girl afflicted with acne is shown that someone is genuinely interested, not only in his skin ailment, but in him as a whole person, he will eagerly discuss his anxieties and concerns," he said in a report to the medical society of the state of New York.

"Through this process one can almost see the tension disappear and the individual become more comfortable. It seems to be of the utmost importance to establish an atmosphere of freedom in which the acne patient can discuss his innermost feelings and problems. After this is accomplished, we can see fairly soon an improvement in his skin condition as well as his over-all functioning, even though the choice of medication varies widely."

By his discreet reference to "the choice of medication," he was telling doctors what they already knew—that acne is extremely difficult to treat successfully, so difficult that some doctors suspect that no treatment really works and when the acne clears up, it clears up on its own. Dr. Powers called his ideas "psychologic management" rather than psychologic treatment or cure.

During adolescence, he pointed out, emotions are "keenly attuned" to the forces and influences of the environment. "The adolescent seeks self-expression, trying to establish himself as an individual in his own right." Yet he has to "belong" and to be "accepted."

Because a "clear skin" is necessary to "belong", the adolescent with acne is at a disadvantage

"If he is repeatedly rejected, th unfavorable emotional response most probably will be damaging." He will be derided by other adolescents, "thereby increasing his discomfort and forcing him into deeper isolation."

Dr. Powers' adolescent patients "repeatedly tell of their guilt feelings over sexual matters, of feelings that they are unwholesome and unworthy and that they are unattractive to other people." So the doctor who would treat acne successfully should show the adolescent that he, the doctor, recognizes the youth's value as an individual and help him to discard his feelings of guilt and unworthiness."

Six troops attended, most of the scouts accompanied by their mothers.

Francine Gill, a Senior Scout, was master of ceremonies. She presented the neighborhood committee chairman, Mrs. Jane Moody, who gave the address of welcome.

Special guests were presented as follows:

Mrs. Edwin Dawson, of Monessen, area president; Mrs. Felix Superfisky, chairman of Triad; Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Belle Vernon, Leaders Club president; Mrs. Edward Syzmansky, of Belle Vernon, neighborhood chairman; Mrs. George Egler, of Monessen, finance chairman; Mrs. Joseph Williams, American Legion Auxiliary president and Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh.

One of the interesting portions of the program was the presentation by a representative from each troop of birthday money for the Juliet Low fund.

Mrs. Thomas Cramer, chairman of the Fund, received from each of the girls money amounting to the total of all the girls' birthdays.

Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Arrow, Mrs. James Moody and Mrs. Gill were on the banquet committee.

Following each Troop entertained with Scout songs. The affair closed with a friendship circle and the singing of taps.

Wants Schools To Need Funds

HARRISBURG (UP)—State Sen. Jo Hays (D-Centre) has introduced legislation which would eliminate the state's automatic $1,000 minimum subsidy to school districts and make each district demonstrate the need for the funds before payment was made.

Hays said that as the subsidy law stands the minimum subsidy to all districts is given regardless of need, with no application of the district necessary.

Districts in need of more than the minimum subsidy are required to show the need. Hays said removal of the minimum subsidy provision would require all districts to apply for and justify payments.

Use Center Pole Metering on Farm

By UNITED PRESS

Farmers who make major changes in their electric wiring systems because of increased needs about the farm should use a center pole metering, according to Joe McCurdy, Penn State Extension Agricultural Engineer.

Under a center pole setup, a separate set of wires is run from the meter pole to each of the major buildings. This separate line is justified when the electrical loads in the house is smaller than those of other buildings.

Shorter wire is needed under this system because the pole is located as near to the center of the different loads as possible, McCurdy said. Less voltage is dropped, thereby providing better operation of the equipment. Another big advantage is noted when wiring changes are made in one building, the others are not affected. This also is, true in cases of fire or damage done by a storm. All the eggs are not in one basket.

A farmer getting a complete wiring job should consider center pole metering. Location of the pole would best be determined by the electric power supplier.

February Foods

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's February list of plentiful foods is headed by young broilers and fryers, which are being sold at a lower price than last year.

The department also reported an abundance of high-quality beef, frozen fish fillets, rice, dry beans and a record supply of canned sweet corn. Other products on hand are canned plums, dried prunes, milk and dairy products.

Pennsylvania consumer experts stress the buying of eggs and potatoes because of large supplies. Egg production is increasing seasonally and continues to run ahead of last year's production. The large quantity of potatoes, available from the fall crop, will be supplemented by the winter crop.

P&WVA to Fix Avella Bridge

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission has announced that the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway Co. will repair a bridge carrying Route 28 over its tracks in Avella, Washington County, as soon as deck steel is delivered for the work.

The railroad said the steel was promised for delivery April 1. It said about four weeks will be required to repair the span and build a pedestrian walk.

The company took action following a PUC investigation started after several Avella residents complained the bridge was hazardous for traffic and school children because of the narrow roadway and lack of a walkway.

Asks for Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa) announced Wednesday he has asked the Agriculture Department to include 15 northwestern Pennsylvania counties in its emergency feed and grain program.
